in this issue we offer installation service, what 24/7 service means and DITEC 2008

Installed CT Tubes

Imaging Affiliates, with assistance from its contract engineers, now offers installed CT tubes. We've always offered our customers competitive prices and good service on CT tubes that our customers have purchased and installed themselves, but we are now proud to offer installation on certain popular tubes as well. Imaging Affiliates has formed strategic alliances with experienced engineers who will install, calibrate and verify satisfactory image performance for most GE, Picker/Marconi/Philips and some Siemens CT scanners. If you're tired of dancing to the OEM's tune and paying his price with no discussion or concessions, call us today to discuss how much money your facility could save on its next CT tube change.

In addition to saving you money on the tube and labor expenses, our engineer would be happy to have your own personnel sit in and participate in the process to improve their level of training and confidence. For those of you who have OEM service, you know that they guard their knowledge and don't like to play well with others. Imaging Affiliates has always shared its wealth of knowledge freely and openly with its customers, vendors, and others in the diagnostic imaging community.

Our installed service is available 24/7 just like our non-installed tubes. Call us today at 800-388-9800 and we'll be glad to discuss your requirements for saving money on installed CT tubes

24/7 Service; What does it mean?

Lots of companies advertise 24/7 service, but what does it really mean? If your facility loses a CT tube late in the day on Friday, you stand a very good chance of receiving a new tube within 12-18 hours. For those of you with your own dedicated in-house service, you'll be back up and running before Sunday. If you don't have your own engineers, Imaging Affiliates may be able to provide you with one of its own contracted support engineers and depending on the location, can have your scanner back up before your busy Monday schedule starts. Put Imaging Affiliates to the test and call us at 800-388-9800 to find out for yourself what we mean by 24/7 Service.
